MORE RUSSIANS GOING TO WORK

New Arrivals Want Employment and Others Start for Kauai.

With the exception of a few families still being held at the Quarantine Island, all the Russians who arrived on the Mongolia last week were yesterday taken to the immigration station, and their examination began. Those who were held are suffering from mild cases of chickenpox.

The day's work of Immigration Inspector Halsey and his assistants resulted in about seventy-five of the Russians being passed, and all these went at once to the shed of the planters' association, where they were fed and housed.

As there are almost two hundred awaiting examination, the federal authorities still have their hands full. So far none of this lot of immigrants have been found who do not come up to the immigration requirements. One little boy whose arm is deformed may be the cause of his whole family being deported, according to a statement of one of the officials yesterday, unless someone can go on his bond that he will not become a public charge.

Better Looking Crowd.

It is the general opinion of the police officers and the authorities who have handled this last lot of Russians that they are a better looking crowd than those who have come before. The men look cleaner, and present a far better appearance than their countrymen already here and the women, also, are less slovenly than the others.

Special Agent Perelstons met the men as they were released from the immigration station, and directed them to the shed, all of the families accepting the invitation and making themselves comfortable in the places provided for them by the planters' association.

Several rather warm arguments took place between Perelstons and the Russians, but all the new arrivals went away apparently satisfied.

"They are all right now," said Mr. Perelstons, "but we've got to watch them."

None of the malecontents have as yet reached the new Russians, according to Perelstons, although they had plenty of opportunity to do so. When they were taken from the wharf to the station, Inspector Halsey had so few men at his command that it would have been almost an impossibility to prevent anyone from getting among them. At the end of the street under the coaling railroad, a number of the old Russians gathered in an effort to see the new arrivals, but a police officer was stationed there to induce them to keep away.

Places Ready.

It is highly probable that those of the newcomers that have already been passed will be sent to the plantations today or in the near future. Ten families are wanted at Oahu, ten at Wai-anae, eight at Hilo, ten at Oonema, and eight at Papeete, so the Russians need only take their choice.

About twenty-five Russians who have been living in the Iwilei camp and stockade went to the planters' shed yesterday and requested work, and they were sent to the Koloa plantation on Kauai last night on the Kinau. They were extremely cheerful when they were sent off and after a wagonload of their household goods, and a wagonload of themselves had been sent down to the steamer, the balance of them started off on foot, smiling a farewell at Royal D. Mead and W. H. Babbitt, who stood at the gate waving signs of relief.

Filipinos Off Also.

The steerage of the Mongolia had been well crowded with representatives of nearly all the eastern Asiatic peoples and among these were quite a number of little brown brothers. They went at once to the planters' shed upon being released from quarantine, without evincing any desire to see the city at all and while some went off on the Kinau to the Kauai plantations, the rest were provided for at the shed and will leave for Hawaii, Maui and other plantations during the week.

There were a mandolin and guitar among the Filipinos, which attracted the Russians at once, when the latter were released from the immigration station and a bunch of horly slaves gathered around the players. One insisted upon learning how to play, the mandolin immediately and his endeavors to play it upside down amused the little men immensely.

CHINESE COMPASS.

The Chinese seem to have used the compass, or its equivalent, at a very early date to guide them in their journeys across the vast plains of Tartary, says the New York American. They made little images, whose arm, moved by a freely suspended magnet, pointed continually toward the pole.

An apparatus of this kind was presented to ambassadors from Cochinchina to guide them in their homeward journey, some 1100 years before our era.

The knowledge thus possessed seems to have gradually traveled westward by means of the Arabs, though it was not fully applied among the peoples of western Europe.

THE MODERN MILKMAID.

"What's in your pail, my pretty maid?"
"Milk from the cow, kind sir," she said.
"May I look and see, my pretty maid?"
"No, you might wear it, sir," she said.

HONOLULU WHO IS MAKING GOOD

DR. EDWARD B. YOUNG.

The many friends of Edward B. Young, a former graduate of Puna-hou, will be pleased to hear that after graduating from the Detroit Medical College, he recently passed a successful examination before the board of medical examiners of the State of Michigan.

Doctor Young, whose parents are at present living on Liliha street, left here about five years ago and is one of the many Chinese young men who is making good in the States. Although with but very little means, he has managed to pull his way through college.

During the recent trip of W. Tin Chang to Detroit, he met Doctor Young there, who was then taking up clinical work in the Grace Hospital of that city. This is one of the largest hospitals in the State of Michigan and Doctor Young was fortunate in being admitted. He will take up two years of special work at the Grace Hospital and will then return to Honolulu to practise his profession.

The newspapers of Detroit have published several articles about Doctor Young's success. He was the first Chinese to be admitted to practise medicine in the State of Michigan and this has made him prominent among the followers of this profession in that State.

MOTHERS

should know. The troubles with multitudes of girls is a want of proper nourishment and enough of it. Now-a-days they call this condition by the learned name of Anemia. But words change no facts. There are thousands of girls of this kind anywhere between childhood and young ladyhood. Disease finds most of its victims among them. Some of them are passing through the mysterious changes which lead up to maturity and need especial watchfulness and care. Alas, how many break down at this critical period; the story of such losses is the saddest in the history of home. The proper treatment might have saved most of these household treasures, if the mothers had only known of WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION and given it to their daughters, they would have grown to be strong and healthy women. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Search the world over and you will find nothing to equal it. Taken before meals it improves the nutritive value of ordinary foods by making them easier to assimilate, and has carried hope and good cheer into thousands of darkened homes. The Abbeig Kindergarten says: "Your preparation is a sure cure for the most violent cold, if properly taken. In treating children, it has proved in many cases under our observation a sure preventive of the progress of pulmonary affections, and has in every case of incipient consumption acted as a stay of that dreadful disease." It will not disappoint you. Sold by all chemists here.
